

U. S. HealthWorks, Inc. Acquires Two Therapeutic Services Clinics From Medical Rehabilitation Associates, Inc.

June 3, 2002 — Vince Thompson

Alpharetta, GA.... U. S. HealthWorks, Inc., the Alpharetta, GA-based provider of occupational healthcare services, announced today the acquisition of two therapeutic services clinics from Medical Rehabilitation Associates (MRA) in Lewiston and Augusta, Maine.

Douglas Pavlak, MD, started MRA in 1986. The two U. S. HealthWorks acquisitions are located at 77 Bates Street, Suite 103 in Lewiston, ME and 25B Stone Street, in Augusta, ME.

The MRA acquisition complements the U. S. HealthWorks comprehensive approach to occupational health and safety offered at more than 130 freestanding and on site locations in 15 states. Their network of 3,200 employees and 450 physicians provide occupational healthcare services for more than 12,500 patients per day and more than 2 million patient visits annually. Services include injury and illness treatment, physical therapy, post-offer testing, and drug screening and loss prevention.

Along with the acquisition, former MRA associate Adam McPhee, EX. PHYS, CSCS, will join the U. S. HealthWorks team. McPhee will manage the two clinics and he also specializes in working with chronic pain and spine patients and provides wellness training to companies and individuals. Melissa Bilodeau, LATC, CSCS and Joel Chretien, LATC will join U. S. HealthWorks as well and will be responsible for patient care, personal training and wellness education. Former on site L. L. Bean physical therapist Rachel Langlais completes the team.

“This acquisition complements our Maine presence and the entire U. S. HealthWorks network,” said U. S. HealthWorks Chief Operating Officer Randy Platt. “We look forward to continuing the fine standard of care that Dr. Pavlak and his partners and staff have established.”

About U. S. HealthWorks, Inc.

U. S. HealthWorks, Inc. delivers occupational healthcare services through a national network of freestanding clinics and on site locations to employer clients. U. S. HealthWorks partners with the risk management functions of its customers to decrease significantly the total cost of worker injuries, where a large portion of the expense is in the administration of claims and employee lost time. An effective provider of occupational medical services, such as U. S. HealthWorks, can save an employer 30% to 40 % or more in total costs compared with the typical emergency room or family doctor program. For more information, visit www.ushealthworks.com.
